

Budget, Learn, Grow: Free Financial Literacy Essentials

For many of us, 2023 was a challenging year in terms of navigating inflation, accommodating high-interest credit card rates, and deciphering headlines around student loan repayment. Staying on top of financial best practices is both time and energy consuming, and cost-free resources can go a long way towards alleviating stress.

If you want to end the year strong (or at least feel more prepared for what next year brings) you don't have to game plan your financial picture alone. Our nonprofit partner, GreenPath Financial Wellness, offers a variety of free financial education courses that you can take online, anytime.

Haven't had the opportunity to explore LearningLab+ yet? Here's a snapshot of some of the current courses. The best part? You can walk away with some financial best practices in the time it takes to savor a meal or cup of coffee.

HOMEBUYING 101 (1 Hour)

Who Benefits: Anyone who is contemplating home purchase —a decision that is often laden with paperwork, processes, and industry jargon.

What's Covered: This five-part course (divided into 10- to 15-minute-long segments) covers financial readiness, shopping for lenders, closing day, and the many steps in between.
